The original Town of Amherst was established in 1764, 3.2 km west of its present location. Following the Acadian Expulsion, New England settlers established many communities along the Fundy shore, one of which grew to be the Town of Amherst. By 1850, the town was located in its present place. The railway brought industry to town and by 1908, Amherst was the busiest manufacturing centre in all Atlantic Canada.

Four of Canada's Fathers of Confederation were from Amherst: Edward Chandler, Robert Barry Dickey, Johnathan McCully and Sir Charles Tupper, who served as Canada's Prime Minister. The four are honored with large granite stones in Victoria Square.

Notable people with Amherst roots:
 Willard Boyle - Nobel Prize winner physicist
 Alex Colville - painter and printmaker
 Leslie Feist - indie pop singer/songwriter
 John Greer - sculptor.
 Deanne Fitzpatrick - Rug Hooking - Order of Canada

Athletic legends from Amherst:
 Rocky Johnson - professional wrestler
 Craig Martin - professional hockey player
 Mark McFarlane - professional hockey player
 Bill Riley - professional hockey player
 Jacob Melanson - professional hockey player
 Carly Jackson - professional hockey player.
